The nation's history is marked by diversity, which has tragically led to conflict. Differing political ideologies and a struggle for power between competing former liberation movements wreaked havoc throughout the nation and region. Decades of civil war ushered in political and social insecurity, and today Angola is reaping a grim harvest of years gone by.

Yet despite being a nation full of beauty and potential, Botswana also faces many underlying challenges. With one out of three people in the nation HIV positive, life expectancy has dropped from 72 to 39 since 1990, and AIDS/HIV has left 80,000 orphans. With the world's second highest HIV infection rate, funerals have tragically become the dominant social gathering in many communities.

- The Every Nation Church in Botswana to continue reaching and discipling the Tswana people.
- Campus ministry to flourish and to continue by raising God honoring disciples.
- Mature beliefs free from tribal or animistic thinking.
- Discipling indigenous Church leaders to protect from syncretism.
- Young people to choose abstinence to cleanse their nation of HIV/AIDS.
